P R E F A C E

The command 'Increase and multiply' was taken seriously by the Strittmatters, for they have become almost as numerous as the birds of the air. -- It is my purpose in this little work to record for posterity the names of the Strittmatters that have descended from Andrew Strittmatter, from whom, as from a tiny mustard seed, has sprung up a mighty tree, with far-spreading branches.

The compiling of the Strittmatter 'Family Tree' was suggested in the summer of nineteen hundred and thirty four, and after some hesitation I decided to perform the task. It has been a difficult and tedious task for me, but at the same time a pleasant one. This record has taken a long time to mature, partly because I could work at it only in my spare time, and chiefly because of the slowness on the part of many in giving me their family data. And if the records are incomplete in many places, it is due to the fact that many did not respond at all to my many entreaties for information.

This 'Family Tree' is necessarily very imperfect, and no doubt contains many mistakes, since I can claim no experience at all in this field, nor have I ever seen a family record of this type. Hence it is my earnest desire that some one more capable than myself will before long continue and perfect what I have begun.

I wish to acknowledge with gratitude the cooperation and encouragement given me by so many of my cousins, and in a special way do I wish to thank those that gave me their generous assistance in getting the data together.

A twig of the Strittmatter tree,

I N T R O D U C T I O N

A person glancing inside this book for the first time might take it to be either a textbook of some new science or some kind of new puzzle. Therefore, to solve difficulties, a few words of explanation are in place.

This 'Family Tree' begins with ANDREW STRITTMATTER, who was born in Baden, the southwestern part of Germany, in 1793. It gives, as correctly as possible, the name and brief data of each of his descendants down to the present time. The names of only direct descendants, that is, of those only who have come down from Andrew Strittmatter in the direct line (with the names of their husbands and wives), will be found in this book. -- These records are completed to the present time, except the recent births, deaths, etc. that have not been reported to the author.

This work is divided into two parts. In PART FIRST a chapter is devoted to Andrew Strittmatter, and one to each of his children, whom we shall call the 'Pioneer' Strittmatters. A short biography is given in each chapter and then the names of the children, grandchildren, etc. of each 'pioneer' family. The biographical sketches are very short; both because little information is at hand and also because this work is not intended to be a family history, but merely a record of names.

Beside each name appears a letter and a number. These are intended to help in finding out the relationship between different persons and especially in determining to what pioneer family each person belongs.-- Each pioneer family has a letter. A capital letter appears with the name of each direct descendant of that family, and a small letter with the names of their husbands and wives. The numbers indicate in what order the persons were born. - Thus, for example, 'P' stands for Peter Strittmatter; 'P5' beside the name of Aloysius Strittmatter indicates that he is the fifth child of Peter; 'P53' beside the name of Leo Strittmatter indicates that he is the third child of Peter's fifth child; 'P533' beside the name of Rose M. Strittmatter indicates that she is a grandchild of Peter, etc.. And 'p53' beside the name of Agnes (Gray) Strittmatter indicates that she is married to 'P53' or Leo Strittmatter.

When there are more than nine in a family, a small letter (a, b, c, d, etc.) is added to the pioneer letter. Thus 'P9b' beside the name of Isadore Strittmatter indicates that he is the eleventh child of Peter; and consequently Isadore's grandson, Rogis, has 'P9b41' beside his name.

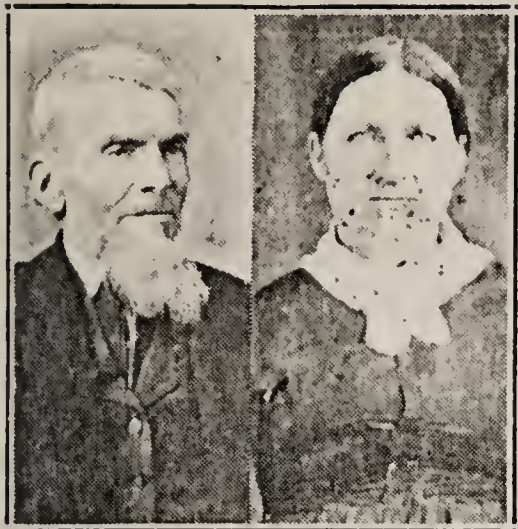

The 'family signs' or 'pioneer letters' are as follows: 'F' stands for the Francis Strittmatter branch; 'H' for Catharine Huber; 'I' for Mary Illig; 'P' for Peter Strittmatter; 'Pa' for Paul Strittmatter; 'J' for Joseph Strittmatter; 'A' for Andrew Strittmatter; 'K' for Frances Kirsch; 'Aug' for Augustino Strittmatter.

In PART SECOND all the names are recorded again, and with each name are given the more important data of each person's life. Under 'Place Born' is given as a rule the town or township. However, in many cases the township is not given, but the town nearest which the person was born. This is the case with Nicktown especially.

By the term 'Occupation' is meant the person's trade or profession, though at present he may be working at a different trade, or even have no work at all. For married women no occupation is given, for it is understood that if they are genuine wives and genuine Strittmatters, they must all be good 'housewives'. Likewise for persons still in school no occupation is given.

By 'Address' is understood the person's address at present, or if the person is dead, his address at the time of his death. - Unless otherwise indicated, place of birth and all addresses are in the state of Pennsylvania; and the town or townships are in Cambria County. In the case of religious, the address of the person's headquarters is given, regardless of where the person may be at present.

At the end of this booklet appears an INDEX, where all the names appear again in alphabetical order, together with their 'family sign' (letter and number), and with the pages on which they are to be found.

Andrew Strittmatter Sr. was born in Rottweil, a small town in southwest Germany. He came to the United States in 1817, together with two half-brothers, the Belz family, Xavier Mayer, and Xavier's sister Frances Mayer. Andrew Strittmatter married this Frances Mayer (Myers) two days after their arrival at the port of Philadelphia, on August 23, 1817, in Holy Trinity Church.

A few days after the wedding the whole company moved westward and finally settled in Nittany Valley, in Center County. According to Doctor Strittmatter of Philadelphia (others to the contrary), Francis Strittmatter was born here, while all the other children were born in Cambria County.

C H A P T E R I

Andrew Strittmatter

While in Europe some years ago, I had the good fortune to visit Germany, and part of my last day in Germany was spent in a very picturesque little village far off from the railroad and nestled quietly in the forest of the 'Schwarzwald', or Black Forest. The name of the village was Strittmatt, and the restaurant where I ate my last meal in Germany had as proprietor the daughter of a certain Ludwig Strittmatter. There are many Strittmatters in the Black Forest region of Germany, and no doubt they are distant relatives of ours, since the head of our family, Andrew Strittmatter, came from some place in Baden, where the Black Forest is located.

As far as I have been able to find out, Andrew Strittmatter married Frances Myers in Philadelphia, and lived near Philadelphia, in Nittany Valley, some time before moving westward to Cambria County. Being a farmer, not long after arriving in Cambria County, he settled down on a farm not far south of Carrolltown, somewhere near the Flick farm. Later he moved to Bradley Junction, where he built a log house and cleared the land where his grandson, Alexander Strittmatter, now lives. Today it is one of the best farms in that section, but Andrew had to put in many a year of hard toil to change the forest into fertile fields. Roads were few and also poor in those days; nevertheless he managed to haul potatoes by oxen over the mountain to Altoona. He had to leave home about midnight on these trips, and when he reached home late in the afternoon he was richer by exactly eight dollars for his load of potatoes.

Mrs. Andrew Strittmatter came from the Myers family, a pioneer family in Cambria County. Like all the wives of those days, she put her share of labor and love into the family education. She was a very pious woman and planted early the roots of religion into the breasts of her children. She believed in discipline, and used at times to say to her children: "Children, you must be good, for I will not go to hell with you".

Andrew Strittmatter never became rich, except (and that counts most) in a large family. The Strittmatters in Germany today, as far as I could see, are not rich; but are honest, industrious, thrifty folk of the middle class. And that is the case with practically all the descendants of Andrew Strittmatter. Practically all of them have the reputation of being good, honest, thrifty citizens, well liked by their neighbors; faithful to their families, to their Church and to their country. With but few exceptions, all have been and are staunch Catholics, keeping the Faith so deeply rooted in them both by the word and by the example of the pioneer members of the family. The fruit of all this faith, and its reward, is to be seen in the large number of Strittmatter priests and Sisters that serve God's Church.

Another characteristic of the Strittmatters, from Andrew, through his own children and even down to the present day, is their love for large families. In large families they are richest. With large families they do most for Church and state, and in them they merit the greatest blessings of heaven. As long as the Strittmatters continue to be loyal to the true Faith, as long as they continue to bring up large families, as long as they continue in their hard and honest labor, so long can they expect to enjoy contentment and happiness, so long will they enjoy the praise of their fellowmen, so long will they enjoy God's favor and blessing.

The following are the children of Andrew Strittmatter and Frances Myers: Francis, Catherine (Huber), Mary (Illig), Peter and Paul (twins), Joseph, Andrew, Frances (Kirsch), and Augustine. -- Three of them, so I am told, (Francis, Catherine and Mary) were born in Nittany Valley near Philadelphia. Andrew had lived there seven years and had no Church near enough to go to Mass regularly. Mary (Illig) was one year old and not yet baptized when they came to Carrolltown. The other six children were born at Carrolltown. These six, together with Mary, had the honor of being baptized by the pioneer priest of the Alleghenies, Father Gallitzin. -- These 'Pioneer Strittmatters' are the mighty branches of the tree of which Andrew Strittmatter is the trunk, and from them spread out an almost infinite number of smaller branches and twigs that go to make up the verdant, ever flourishing Strittmatter tree. They will be dealt with separately in the following chapters.

CHAPTER II

Francis Strittmatter

Francis Strittmatter was born near Philadelphia. He learnt to farm under his father's directions, and later on acquired ability in more than one line. He became an able carpenter; and also did business as an undertaker.

Francis lived for a time at the southwest end of Carrolltown, where Aaron Kane now lives; and later on he moved to the farm that joins the present cemetery to the south. This farm is still owned by his son, Doctor I. P. Strittmatter. Here he developed quite a good farm, and besides ordinary farming, is said to have succeeded in raising quite a quantity of excellent grapes, from which he made his own wine. This shows that he must have been quite industrious, since the cold climate of Carrolltown is not very favorable for grape growing.

Francis Strittmatter was the oldest of the family, and is said to have been the quietest and most serious of all the 'pioneer' Strittmatters.

CHAPTER III

Catherine (Strittmatter) Huber

Catherine Strittmatter was born near Philadelphia and came as a child with her parents to Cambria County, where she spent the remainder of her days. - She married Peter Huber and settled down on a farm in Carroll Township, on the Old Ebensburg Road. Like her brothers and sisters, she learnt early to work, and spent her long life in simple toil.

She loved to stay at home and to attend to the rearing of her large family, her main journeys extending no farther than the Carrolltown Church on Sundays. -- Mrs. Huber was a 'hard prayer' and likewise gave her children a permanent foundation in the Catholic Faith. The result of this solid religious training can be seen in the fact that an Abbot and two Benedictine Sisters are numbered among her children.

Mary (Strittmatter) Illig

Mary was the last of Andrew Strittmatter's children born in Nittany Valley. She came as an infant to Cambria County, where she was to spend the rest of her mortal career.

She married John Illig, an immigrant from Europe, and devoted her life to the raising of a very large family, which has spread out into almost a tribe. Like her husband, she was a very hard worker, and in fact had to work hard to keep the wolf from the door. Mary and John Illig lived on a farm in Carroll Township, between Carrolltown and Loretto, and the land was none too fertile. Both were rather serious people, who had little time for foolish play and entertainment.

John Illig was bedfast but four weeks before death called him to the next world; but Mary had her patience put to the test in five long years of sickness and bitter suffering, before she was called to receive the reward of her labors.

Peter Strittmatter

Peter Strittmatter was twin brother of Paul and lived to a ripe old age, dying in his eighty ninth year. Peter and Paul were the oldest twins in this part of the state.

Peter was a carpenter by trade, and at first lived in Carrolltown, about two blocks west of the church, on main street. The house is still in use today. Later he moved to a farm on a hill just above Patton, since then called 'Strittmatter Hill'. The farm is owned and operated today by his son Peter.

Peter Strittmatter was married twice, the first time to Ellen Koch of Carroll Township, and the second time to Maria Long of Summerhill, who survived him by many years. She, as well as Peter, was blessed with sturdy health and with love for hard work, both of which certainly account for their reaching close to the ninety mark.

In their declining years they had the happiness of seeing a very large number of faithful children, grandchildren, etc., who form a rather flourishing limb on the Strittmatter tree. Above all, they could boast of giving five daughters to God in the Order of St. Benedict; and four of their grandsons have become priests.

Paul Strittmatter

Paul Strittmatter, though perhaps the least blessed of the whole family in this world's goods, was the richest in the number of children. His wife, Elizabeth Sherry, bore him seventeen children, some of whom died in infancy. Two of his daughters entered the convent. - Paul had the distinction of being the one to live longest in his family, dying in his ninety fifth year.

Paul Strittmatter was a man of medium height and medium build, with light blue eyes that were always kind, even though they would at times have to take on a scolding look; for Paul, like the rest of the Strittmatters, was a strong advocate of both the rod and hard work in family education. He was the only male member of his family that did not raise a beard, and up to the last he kept a thrifty crop of hair, which was far from being white.

While yet a mere lad, Paul had the honor of working for Father Lemke, the founder of Carrolltown, for a period of about ten years. Paul, however, scarcely thought it an honor, for he found the pioneer priest an exacting employer. On one occasion Father Lemke had acquired a barrel of very good wine. Paul had worked very hard in storing it away in the cellar, and when his task was finished he expected to receive a glass of wine to taste. However, in this he was disappointed, for there was not even a glass in sight, and he dared not ask for one. Nevertheless Paul must have his wine. So when Father Lemke was out of sight, Paul got down on the cellar floor on his back and with his mouth under the spigot he moistened his lips and throat with the delicious beverage.

When he was older, Paul worked for about two and one half years in the ore mines and around the ore furnaces near Gallitzin. -- Then he bought a tract of land in Carroll Township (now East Carroll), and in a year's time built a house on it. After being thus equipped, he married Elizabeth Sherry and settled down on his hilly but fertile farm. The farm was in the hands of his oldest son, Peter, for many years, and now belongs to the Shirfs.

At an advanced age Paul sold his farm to his son Peter, and went to live with his daughter, Matilda Link, in Patton. Here for many years he lived a peaceful and happy life. Going a good distance on foot to daily Mass kept both body and soul in perfect health. He was a good friend of Father Edwin Pierron, O.S.B., and had many other friends as well, with whom he spent many a happy hour. All enjoyed his ready wit and his love for a little fun.

But the end was drawing near. During the last four years of his life he was afflicted with total blindness. When this deprived him of his outdoor walks, his health gradually failed him and the father of a very large progeny passed to his reward.

CHAPTER VII

Joseph Strittmatter (J)

Joseph Strittmatter Was Andrew's only son that did not enter wedlock. --- Concerning his life, I have been able to learn very little, and that is neither definite nor accurate.

Joseph should have run away to avoid being drafted in the Civil War, and it seems that he fled to the South. His flight, however, brought him little luck, for in escaping the army with its dangers, he met with a worse state of affairs. It is said, namely, that he died of yellow fever, at the age of about twenty eight years, and that he lies buried in either Texas or in Mexico.

Page 36:- Mrs. Catherine Nealen of Hicktown (shortly before her death) informed me that Joseph Strittmatter did not die as a deserter; but that he was engaged in bridge construction on the Mississippi river, and died of yellow fever in Texas, before the Civil War. He was a carpenter by trade, and a twin brother to Augustino Strittmatter, hence born on July 11, 1833. He died on October 6, 1858.

C H A P T E R VIII

Andrew Strittmatter

Andrew Strittmatter was the last of the 'Pioneers' to die. He reached the good old age of ninety four, and in appearance and character was a genuine old patriarch, and as such was respected and loved by all his townspeople.

Andrew married Catherine Zern, and lived on a good farm one mile west of Carrolltown on the Ebensburg road. He developed the farm into one of the best farms of the district, and the name 'Strittmatter's Corner' still sticks to the Loretto-Road turn-off.

Besides farming, Andrew Strittmatter also carried on other businesses, chiefly lumbering. Though residing in Carrolltown, he owned and managed a feed store and lumber mill in Ebensburg. - Being a good business man, he acquired a small fortune, thus leading his family in material wealth. It must be said, however, that his moderate fortune was acquired in the most honest manner, and was spent not for his private enjoyment, but for the benefit of others. The Church especially, received abundant material help from him, his own parish church in Carrolltown no doubt receiving most. It was at his suggestion and through his generosity that the clock was installed in the Carrolltown church tower. - He held the office of justice of the peace for over twenty five years, and from time to time also held other township offices.

After his wife died, Andrew sold his farm and moved into Carrolltown, to spend the remainder of his days with his daughter, Margaret Yost. Here it was that he helped the Church not only by liberal donations of money, but especially by his holy life and good example. Every morning saw him at Mass, and every Saturday evening saw him the first one to enter Father Thomas' confessional.

Andrew Strittmatter was a man of large stature and a form bespeaking great strength. This, together with his venerable white hair, small beard and kind face, made him look like a patriarch of ages past. Only his strong constitution saved him from death when at the age of over ninety years he fell backwards out of a second story window. He bravely survived this fall for a few more years, until death finally called him to join his brothers and sisters. His son, Father Agatho, O.S.B., sang his funeral Mass, while a daughter in the convent, Sister Josepha, O.S.B., was praying for the repose of his soul.

Frances (Strittmatter) Kirsch

Receiving her mother's name in baptism, Frances imitated her by raising a very large family. She married John Kirsch, who was born across the sea, and choose to be in the Nicktown district. The Kirsch farm, not far from Nicktown, became known far and wide as a model farm and remained in Kirsch hands until recent years. -- John Kirsch was also a good woodsman and became prominent in the lumber business. It is said that his poplar logs were the biggest in the county.

Frances Kirsch inherited her full share of her mother's deep religious faith, excelling perhaps her brothers and sisters, and saw that her children were brought up in the fear of the Lord. She prayed in all seriousness and did a lot of it, insisting also that her children follow her example. She may have at times lacked discretion in this practice, for the reaction in regard to it has not in every case been edifying. In general though, her prayers have born fruit, for the Kirsches are as a rule good Catholics, and one of Frances' daughters and quite a number of her grandchildren have entered the religious state.

If John and Frances Kirsch came back to earth today, they would find their offspring a numerous one. They would find plenty of sturdy, staunch, Kirsches playing an important role as citizens of the Nicktown district; and they would have to travel far, as far as Oregon and Alaska, to visit other descendants.

Augustine Strittmatter

Augustine Strittmatter's full name is Demetrius Augustine, a name given to him in honor of the prince-priest that baptized him. He lived on his father's farm, where he had been raised, and the farm today is still flourishing under the management of his son Alexander.

Besides doing his farm work, he held the office of township road supervisor for a good many of years; and he proved himself worthy of the responsible office by keeping the roads in good shape.

The Augustine Strittmatter branch occupies quite a large space on our family tree. Very many of his children and grandchildren are to be found in and around Cresson and Ebensburg.
